THE BEST REMEDY
for
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and has often eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great probability that these diseases long, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

OVER THE RIVER.

Over the river they beckon to me,
Loved ones who have crossed to the farther side;
The gleam of their sunny robes I see,
But their voices are lost in the rushing tide.
None return from those quiet shores,
Who cross with the boatman cold and pale.

We hear a dip of the oar,
And reach a gleam of the sail,
And lo! they have passed from our yearning hearts;
They cross the stream and are gone for aye;
We may not sunder the veil apart
That hides from our vision the gates of day.

We only know their barks no more
Sail with us o'er life's troubled sea;
Yet somewhere I know on the unseen shore
They watch and beckon and wait for me.

And I sit and think when the sunset's gold
Is flushing river and hill and shore,
I shall one day stand by the waters cold
And list for a sound of the boatman's oar.

I shall watch for a gleam of the sunny sail,
I shall hear the boat as it nears the strand,
I shall pass from sight with the boatman pale
To the better shore of the spirit land.

I shall know the loved who have gone before
And joyfully sweet will the meeting be,
When over the river, the peaceful river
The angel of death shall carry me.

Select Story.

A FAMILY SECRET,

BY MRS. ADOLPHUS BELL.

It was a proud and happy day for Mrs. Sinclair on which her elder daughter had become Sir Edgar Estebrooke's wife. She had been a widow many years, and since her husband's death life had been a hard struggle with her; nor was it the snow of many winters that lay upon her hair, but the touch of a heavy trouble which had fallen upon her when Ida and her little sister Minnie played together in white embroidered frocks and never knew then why their mother so often wept. Ida gained an inkling of the cause, however, which, grew in detail year by year with her own growth until it became the family skeleton, which she and her mother hid away in the cupboard, determined never to bring it to light.

Ere she had attained her eighteenth birthday, Ida became Sir Edward Westbrooke's wife. He had come down to their little secluded village in the early summer, and had there made the acquaintance of the widow and her two pretty daughters. Ida had learned to love him, though twenty years her senior and before the summer passed they were married.

He took her to her luxurious home in London and they were as happy as the days were long.

She knew very little of the world, reared all her life in a country home, and was as pure and guileless as the infant she gave birth to one twelvemonth later; but the trouble which had turned her mothers hair to silver had never once been mentioned. Indeed, Ida even trembled at the idea of her husband ever discovering it, especially now that a son had been born to bear his honorable name.

Two or three months after the birth of her child, Lady Westbrooke accompanied Sir Edgar to a ball, given by one of his friends, and there she was introduced to a Mr. Chesterfield, whom, her hostess previously informed her, was a very rich banker. Sir Edward Westbrooke stood watching his wife as the introduction was made, and wondered at the change that came over her fair young face; he noticed, too, that as she hung on his arm, her breath came in short, quick gasps, and that she was apparently agitated. He was a man old enough to be her father, this George Chesterfield, the banker. Could she have ever met him before, and even if she had, what was the reason of this strange emotion?

He was above so paltry a feeling as jealousy, and yet he felt wounded and aggrieved, he knew not why. He loved her so well, and deemed her utterly incapable of anything like duplicity.

It was during their drive home that he broached the subject, when she was lying back in the carriage with her head half resting upon his shoulder.

"Have you ever met Mr. Chesterfield before, Ida?"

She paused a moment, and then answered.

"No Edgar, never in my life. Why?"

"Nothing, dear, only I thought perhaps you might have done so," said her husband quietly.

She spoke the truth, he was sure, and his mind was relieved.

But Ida was a little nervous next morning in speaking of the ball, and her face was two or three shades paler than usual, but that, no doubt, was in consequence of its fatigues, Sir Edgar thought.

The matter was never again referred to until Mrs. Sinclair came on a visit to her daughter, and then Sir Edward expressed his intention of giving a dinner party solely in her honor.

"We will invite Mr. Chesterfield, Ida," said her husband one evening, while Mrs. Sinclair was paying her usual visit to the nursery. "He is an exceedingly good fellow,——"

"Mr. Chesterfield! Oh no, Edgar, please don't," interrupted Ida nervously, driving the pretty color out of her face.

"Why on earth not, dear?" asked Edgar, somewhat impatiently. "You seem to have taken a strange antipathy toward that man."

"Well, I suppose we all do sometimes," said Ida, evasively.

"Not without reason at any rate," replied the baronet in the same strain. "I should really like you to overcome your prejudice, Ida; although at the same time I have no wish to invite any one who is disagreeable to you."

He spoke coldly and his tone sent a chill to her heart.

Oh, was this secret, which she felt in her duty to conceal even from him going to make a breach between herself and husband she loved so well? If she had only had courage to tell him before their marriage how much better it would have been; for she felt that she never dared reveal it now—the consequences might prove too serious.

She left the room and sought her mother, who had left the nursery and gone to her own apartment. Ida's white face startled her, but when the young wife sat down and told her of her introduction to Mr. Chesterfield, and of Sir Edgar's intention of inviting him to the house, the mother's countenance also changed, and for a moment she confessed herself unable to offer any advice in the matter.

"I cannot leave suddenly, Ida," she said, "or make an excuse that Minnie is ill, as it was only last evening I was telling Edgar how much she was enjoying herself with her friends in the country, and his suspicions would be dangerously aroused. No the best and the wisest plan is to let things take their own course, and to trust in the mercy and goodness of Him who was pleased to send us this great and bitter trial some years ago. The chances are, dear Ida," (for the young wife was trembling in her mother's embrace) "that George Chesterfield will never recognize me. I was but a few years older than you when he saw me last, and now my hair is white, and——"

"O, dear mother, I was wrong not to tell Edgar before we were married," interrupted Ida. "Whatever would he say if he were to learn the truth now? I—the mistress of his home and the mother of his child?"

"Hush! hush! compose yourself, my dear Ida," said Mrs. Sinclair, soothingly. "Go to your husband do nothing to excite his suspicion, neither for one moment conjure up evils that may never exist. Even if this should be the George Chesterfield whom your father——"

"Mother, don't," almost shricked Ida, "the very walls have ears."

But even if he be, dear," added Mrs. Sinclair, "that same George Chesterfield, surely he would never publish it abroad to the world.

They returned to the dining room where Ida had left her husband, and no further allusion was made to the dinner party. On the following morning, however, as Lady Westbrooke sat in her boudoir alone, with her boy on her knee, Sir Edgar joined her and she then told him that she was perfectly willing to invite any guest that her husband might choose to select.

She looked so pretty so utterly guileless, as she sat there the morning sun light turning her bright brown hair to gold, that he bent and kissed her with even more than usual affection.

"My little wife shall ask whom she pleases, and then she will please me," he said, with much tenderness. "Only I don't like her taking prejudices without a reason."

Ida colored guiltily, and longed, as he stood by her side playing with his boy, to make a full confession of everything and trust to his love and affection for the rest. As he turned to leave her the words were on her lips: "Edgar come back; I have something to tell you." And then she looked at her babe and her courage failed her—her tongue was mute and Edgar left her.

How miserable she felt all throught that day! Ah! and many more in succession; and how many tears she shed in secret! Her mother had advised her to invite Mr. Chesterfield to dinner, in accordance with her husband's wishes, and Ida had done so, though her fingers had trembled as she penned the words, and she lived in continual dread of what the consequence of it all might be. She began to feel that it was impossible to go on like this much longer; that come what may, she must tell her husband.

The evening of the dinner party arrived, and, although Ida had been nervous and hysterical all through the day, she stood by her proud husband's side in the drawing room, calmly doing the honors of hostess. Her mother sat on an ottoman near her, looking pale and lovely, with her hands placidly folded and the lights from the candelabra throwing its faint glimmer upon the silver tresses of her hair.

"Mr. Chesterfield!"

Lady Westbrooke went forward to meet him and uttered the words of introduction to her mother with lips that never faltered. The consciouness that this night would surely determine everything, either one way or the other, made her feel wonderfully brave.

She saw her mother's cheek turn to the hue of death and the blood rush like a torrent to George Chesterfield's face. The recognition, was mutual without the shadow of doubt, and Ida, with a sickening feeling possessing her, went back to her husband's side fearful as to what might happen next.

Later on, almost toward the end of the evening, she heard her mother converse sing with him in a small anti room, on the top of the stair case.

She was sitting a little way apart from the others. Her husband was not with them—she believed that he was in the card room below—when Mrs. Sinclair came toward her, and stooping down whispered that Mr. Chesterfield wished to speak to her alone.

For a moment she hesitated—what if Sir Edgar should return and find her in the anti-room with the man for whom she had apparently shown such dislike?

"Do go—he won't detain you a minute," whispered Mrs. Sinclair, hurriedly. "You will be back before any one has time to miss you."

And Ida went, her heart beating wildly.

The gas burned low in that little room where George Chesterfield stood erect and immovable, and evidently awaiting the appearance of his fair young hostess.

He smiled as she came in, and his looks reassured her.

"Lady Westbrooke, it has caused me mingled feelings of pain and pleasure in again meeting the wife of my once esteemed and valued friend, Henry Sinclair—your father," he said, in accents that were slightly tremulous with an inward emmotion. "She has told me how much anxiety my presence beneath your husband's roof has given you, but you need not fear that I am coward enough to let the innocent suffer for the guilty, and disturb the bliss of yours and your noble husband's. Let me add one word more; my doctor has ordered me abroad—to the South of France; all business responsibilities devolve upon my brother; I take my departure next week, and there is but little chance of my ever reaching English soil again."

Ida's heart was too full for words and she silently suffered George Chesterfield to take her hand and carry it to her lips, unconscious that her husband saw all from the staircase.

It was late when the last of the guests took their departure; and then Ida, all unsuspicious, sought her husband in his library alone.

He stood there turning over a few letters, but he put them down as his wife entered, and turned his face toward her.

"Ida, I wish to speak to you—come in and shut the door."

The tone of his words fell like ice upon her heart, and she saw that after all, the truth was to be told.

Silently she obeyed him.

"What were you saying to Mr. Chesterfield in the ante room to-night?"

The silence that followed was awful, and then she came forward with a faint cry, but he put out his arm to keep her back.

"Pray remain where you are," he said; "we can talk perfectly well at this distance."

He gazed at her for a moment, as she stood dumb before him, in her superb dinner dress, with the diamonds that his mother had worn shining on her neck and arms, and her lovely face, pale and quivering now, above them.

"I wish for an answer to my question," he said again. And we will not leave this room until I have had one."

The diamonds upheaved and fell; then she spoke, not excitedly, but clearly, slowly and distinctly:

"The time has come, then, Edgar, when I must tell you that which I fear you will reproach me for not having told you before our marriage," she began. "I know it was very wrong of me, now, but I did not think so seriously of it then; and it has always been a secret between my mother and myself. I don't think even Minnie knows all the truth. It is about my father; he was a partner in George Chesterfield's bank, and, shortly after I was born, he lost a large sum of money in speculations. He used to gamble, too; but, alas! my mother, who loved him only too well, never knew it until it was all too late. He was often out half the night, but he told her that it was his business which kept him, and she, in her innocence, believed what he said. One day—I seem to have a faint recollection of it—he was arrested on charge of robbing George Chesterfield's bank of £15,000. He was found guilty, transported, and died in the penal servitude."

Again there was a brief silence, which was broken soon by a wild and bitter cry from Ida.

"Oh, Edgar I know I was never fit to be your wife—I, the daughter of a convict," she burst forth. "But I loved you so well, and feared that I should lose you if you knew what I was. And still more unworthy am I now to be the mother of your child. Oh, Edgar, my husband, tell me, tell me that you can never love me any more, and I will go away as quiet as possible—away with my mother."

She sank down upon the floor in the agony of her great grief, and ran her jeweled fingers through the loosening tresses of her hair. The next moment and she was lifted tenderly upon her feet, and gathered to her husband's breast.

"Is this all my poor foolish, little Ida?" he said, soothingly, and kissed her bedewed brow. "To think that the fault of another could ever lessen my love for you. Your father is dead heaven rest his soul—and the skeleton of his crime shall never raise up between me and my wife. This, then, has caused your fear of George Chesterfield. My darling how much uneasiness you might have spared yourself if you had only told me all this before!"

"And you won't love me any the less, Edgar?" she asked, timidly seeking his face.

"Any the less?" he repeated with a smile. "More if that can be possible; for it has convinced me to the uttermost of what a precious wife I have got. No, darling, set your mind at rest on that score at once and for all. And your father's crime shall remain buried with him. We won't let that be a skeleton in our cupboard, Ida, will we? What do you say, dear?"

But Lady Westbrooke had nothing to say—she was sobbing out her joy and thankfullness on her dear husband's breast.

Around the World in One day.

An eccentric Berlin philosopher announces that he has discovered a way to make a trip around the world in twenty four hours. He says that he is informed by the captains of ships that birds are seen at sea a thousand miles or more from land, and pronounces it self evident that they must reach shore in a very short time, since they cannot find a resting place in mid ocean. From this he conceived the idea that they merely raise themselves aloft, remain as nearly stationery as possible, while the earth revolves around under them. All that they then have to do is to wait patiently until the desired spot on the earth's surface comes along, and thereupon comfortably to lower themselves to the solid ground. This ingenious practice on the part of the birds the Berlin man proposes to imitate for mankind, with the assistance of a balloon and passenger car of peculiar constretion that he has invented, and which will soar aloft and remain stationery, while the restless earth rolls on below. It does not appear that he has successfully tried a trip with his balloon himself; but he has laid his theory before the Polytechnic Society of Berlin, and given an elaborate exposition of it. The society received it apparently with levity, but the inventor is in dead earnest.

A Tramps Fortune.

RUNNING THROUGH HIS SUDDENLY ACQUIRED WEALTH IN A FEW MONTHS.

William Grossman was a German tramp five years ago. He located in the ore-fields in the western part of Lehigh county fell in love and married a young girl, with whom he lived a few years and then suddenly disappeared. Last July he reappeared, equally as suddenly and with piles of money. He had inherited $26,000 from a deceased relative he said. His wife in the meantime, had taken another husband, but husband No. 2 was readily released when No. 1 came with his show and wealth. Grossman bought a fine house, clothed his wife in elegant apparel, bought her jewelry, fine furniture, horses, carriages, sleighs, and fancy stock and lived like a king. His $26,000 lasted him just seven months, and was spent in the most lavish manner. The last property he had, some twelve acres of land, has just been sold by the Sheriff.

QUICK AND SURE.

Many people drag themselves wearily about from day to day, not knowing what ails them, but with failing strength and spirits, feeling all the time that they are steadily sinking into their graves. If these sufferers would only use Parker's Ginger Tonic, they would find a cure commencing from the first dose, and vitality, strength and cheerfulness quickly and surely coming back to them, with restoration to perfect health. Farm and Fireside.

SUGGESTIONS OF AND FOR THE SEASON.

If one has not laid his plans for the year, let him now "stop and think," that he may lose no time afterward in finding out what to do, and how and when to do it. He who plans is the one who succeeds in every department of human labor. There is much to be done to make ready for the busy days that will soon come. The engine must be loaded with fuel, the fire built, and the steam on before the train can move. Let every farmer have a good head of steam on, and be ready to go forward as soon as the spring work begins. Floods and freshets are likely to occur, and much damage may be done unless prevented. Outlets must be provided for surface water, and so made that the water will not gather in dangerous streams. Clear the drains of any rubbish, leaves, etc., that there may be no interference with their full flowing. Roads in spring are one of the most serious inconveniences in many localities. Now is the time to plan and execute a reform in road making. As soon as the "settled weather" comes, see that the almost impassible roads are made good—the strength of a chain is measured by that of its weakest link. There is much to be done in getting the farm implements all in good trim for work. It may be that a corn-marker is needed, or other home-made implement, and do not leave such work until the day for planting. There are many forms of home-made markers. One which has done us good service is made by affixing short runners with sharp bevelled ends to a plank, to which a tongue is attached. Runners may be placed upon both surfaces of the planks, and at different distances, so that by reversing the marker wider or narrower, rows may be made. The corn crop may be much improved by selecting the best seed. This is a matter that should have been done last fall, and of which mention was made in the Notes in autumn. It may be possible to get superior seed from a neigh

J. E. BITTENBENDER, } Editors.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Friday, April 8, 1881.

THE WILLIAMSPORT COUNCILS.

Judge Elwell filed his opinion on Saturday the 25 inst., in the case of the members of the Common and Select Councils of Williamsport, who were summoned before him to show that they were not in contempt for having failed to make provision for the payment of interest now due and unpaid on the city bonds. The Councils responded to the rule of Court by making answer, by sworn affidavit, that they had made proper effort to rise the interest, by laying an extra assessment, but only a few thousand dollars had been collected, and that they had no intention of resisting the decrees of Court. This last proceeding was the result of a foolish movement of the Councils some time ago looking to the surrender of the city charter and repudiation. After reviewing the case at some length, Judge Elwell decrees that the rule shall be made absolute, but it is not to be executed by the arrest of any of the Councilmen, who shall, within ten days, execute and file bonds in the Bloomsburg Court to the Commonwealth in the penal sum of $1,000 each for appearance on the 5th of May or other subsequent time fixed by the Court, of which they shall have five day's notice, to answer for the proper performance of their duty in the case. The City Treasurer is also included in the decree. The decision of the Court has caused considerable flattering among some of the councilmen, as they did not expect that bail would be demanded for the performance of their duty, and had been boasting about the streets that the Court was at the end of its string. At the first regular meeting of the Council on Monday night an ordinance was introduced looking to a settlement of their financial difficulties, and they have manifested a disposition to end the unpleasant condition in which Williamsport has been for several years. This is the only wise and sensible plan that can be adopted, and the sooner, the better.

SUPERVISORS.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—As I frequently see legal decisions in your paper I would like to ask a question concerning the right of Supervisors of Townships. It is this. Has a Supervisor the right to take percentage on his whole duplicate, and take wages besides? By answering this, you will oblige.

Yours &c.
J.

When a Supervisor is acting as Collector he is entitled to a commission on the money collected by him. When he is working on the roads he is entitled to his per diem pay, but he cannot take a commission as collector and for the same time take wages per day.—Ed.

State Expenses.

SOME ITEMS FROM THE GENERAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The general appropriation bill has now passed the House finally and will be considered in the Senate. The bill as passed is not affected by the Attorney General's opinion in regard to salaries, as provision is made for $1,500 for each member during a possible one hundred and fifty days session.

For the payment of the expenses of the Legislature including the pay and mileage of members, clerks and other employees, and for postage on the Legislative Record $530,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary are appropriated.

The resident clerk is given $1,600 a year for expenses, postage, express charges etc., during the recess.

The chief clerks of the House and Senate are given $200 each for making indexes of the journals of the two Houses. They also get each $1,000 for services they may have to perform during 1882. For the same period the resident clerk is paid $1,800. These sums are in addition to the regular salaries for the session.

The Legislative Record is paid for at the rate of $7.68 per page.

One hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars are approoriated for the expenses of the State government.

For the judges of the Supreme Court, President and other law judges $460,000 for each year, 1881-82.

For the payment of the interest on the public debt $2,103,000.

For the support of the common schools $1,000,000.

For public printing, $60,000.

For the public grounds, $18,000.

For the fire companies of Harrisburg for two years, $800.

For the purchase of books for the State library, $6,000.

HAWKING AND PEDDLING.

The following opinion of the court, filed March 26th, 1881, in the case of the Commonwealth vs. John Hughes, will be found of interest to merchants in particular, and the public in general. It explains itself.

QUARTER SESSIONS OF COLUMBIA COUNTY. SPECIAL VERDICT.

The Court.

The first count in the indictment charges that the defendant did unlawfully sell, as a hawker and pedler, foreign and domestic goods, wares and merchandise, to wit: Oysters, contrary, &c. The second count charges that he did unlawfully expose to sale as a hawker and pedler, foreign and domestic goods, wares and merchandise, to-wit: Oysters, contrary, &c.

The verdict of the jury finds that the Act of Assembly passed April 7, 1846, Pamphlet Laws 1846, page 364, was extended to Columbia county, by Act passed 27 March 1848, Pamphlet Laws 1848, page 270, and that same is now, and was on the 12th December, 1876 in force in this county. And that on that day in the Town of Bloomsburg, in this county, the defendant did as a hawker and peddler and traveling merchant, sell and offer for sale, oysters to citizens of said town, and did go from place to place crying oysters in the streets. But whether he is guilty of an offense punishable by law is submitted to the Court. If the facts set sorth, constitute in the opinion of the Court an offense, they find the defendant guilty, otherwise verdict for the defendant.

The Act of Assembly referred to in the verdict in force here is in the words following: "No person shall sell or expose to sale, within the county of (Schuylkill,) Columbia, as a hawker, peddler or traveling merchant, any foreign or domestic goods, wares or merchandise, under penalty of fifty dollars for each and every offense, to be inflicted in the manner provided by the Act of April 6, 1833, entitled a supplement to the Act regulating auctions in the City of Lancaster and other towns of this Commonwealth passed the 7th day of April, 1832. The mode of proceeding, provided by the Act of April 6, 1833 is by a warrant from a justice of the peace, a binding over to court and indictment in the Quarter Sessions.

The two words "hawker" and "peddler," as employed in statutes are nearly, if not quite, identical in meaning; and each of them signifies an itinerant vendor of goods. Bishop on Statutory, Crimes Sec. 1074. In Abbott's Law Dictionary, page 552, a hawker is defined to be "a person who practices carrying about merchandise from place to place for sale; as opposed to one who sells at an established shop." It is equivalent to "peddler," which is more used at the present day. It is generally understood from the word that a hawker is one who not only carries goods for sale, but seeks for purchasers, either by outcry, or by attracting notice and attention to them as goods for sale, by an actual exhibition of or exposure by placards or labels, or by a signal like the sound of a horn for the sale of fish. Commonwealth vs. Ober 12 Cushing 495. Fisher vs. Patterson, 1 Harris, 336–338. Commonwealth vs. Willits 14 S. & R. 398.

The verdict finds the specific acts done by the defendant to have been done as a hawker and peddler, going from place to place, offering for sale and selling oysters to citizens and calling attention to them as goods for sale by crying "oysters" in the streets. It follows that he is guilty of a violation of the law, if the article sold or offered for sale was goods, wares or merchandise within the meaning of the statute.

The word "goods," in its largest sense signifies all a man's property other than real estate. Bishop Statutory Crimes, Sec. 344. 1 Abbott's Law Dictionary 537. In criminal statutes, particularly, in statutes against larceny, it is not understood to have the full meaning as above indicated—choses in action, bank notes, mortgages, deeds and the like are exceptions. But with these and some other exceptions, not necessary to be mentioned here, this word seems to include everything of a personal nature. Thus oats, corn, &c., the products of a man's farm, are goods, wares and merchandise. The State vs. Brooks 4 Com. Rep. 446. In its legal sense it includes animals as well as inanimate things, and in penal statutes it is construed as limited to movables belonging to the property of some person, of intrinsic value. Taylor vs. Barnes, 35 N. H., 484. The term merchandise includes goods and in general, objects of traffic and commerce, and is broad enough to include also stocks or shares in incorporated companies.

The Act of Assembly makes no exception in regard to articles of food or any other class of goods. It follows that the prohibition contained in the Act of Assembly applies to the sale of oysters by hawkers and peddlers, with as much certainty as to any other goods or articles of traffic and commerce.

The purpose of the Act, without doubt was in part, to prevent interference with the business of established houses, and also to protect the community from imposition which might be practiced by itinerant dealers.

In regard to no articles of food is this protection more needed than those of fish and oysters.

Upon the facts found by the verdict, we are of opinion that the defendant was guilty of the offense charged in the indictment and that he thereby incurred the penalty of fifty dollars and the costs as provided by the statutes.

The Republicans in the Senate of the United States are beginning to make a show of hands preliminary to the coming contest over the New York collectorship. In the caucus on Monday, Senators Hale and Frye of Maine, representing the administration, urged that the struggle to elect Riddleberger and Gorham be abandoned for the present and that the Senate be permitted to proceed with the executive business of the session. They argued that after a trial of endurance for months the Republicans would be worse off at the end than the beginning, as it was evident that the Democrats are determined to prevent the consummation of the Mahone bargain, but Conkling and Sherman resisted, and carried the caucus with them on the appeal to do all in the power of the Republicans of the Senate to carry out the contract with Mahone in good faith after he has executed his share of it in turning over to them the committees. It is suspected on the part of the administration that the object of Conkling is to gain time in order to organize his campaign against the confirmation of Robertson. Though the Conkling faction had a temporary success in Monday's caucus they will be obliged soon to yield to the almost universal demand of the country that the Senate proceed to the performance of the important business of the session.—Patriot.

The Clean Newspapers.

There is a growing feeling in every healthy community against the journals who make it their special object to minister to perverted taste by seeking out and serving up in a seductive form disgusting scandals and licentious revelations. There is good reason to believe that the clean newspaper is more highly prized to day than it was four or five years ago. It is also safe to predict that, as people in all ranks of life, who wish to protect their own at least from contamination, become more conscious of the pernicious influence of a certain class of journals, called "enterprising" because they are ambitious to serve up dirty scandals, they will be careful to see that the journals they permit to be read in the family circle are of the class that never forget the proprieties of life. Already men and women of refinementten-and healthy morals have had their attion called to the pernicious influence of bad literature, and have made commendable efforts to counteract the same by causing the sound literature to be published and sold at popular prices. These efforts are working a silent but sure revolution. The best authors are more generally read to-day than at any previous time. The sickly sentimental story paper, and wild ranger and pirate story book, are slowly yielding the field to worthier claimants. To the praise of the decent newspaper it may be said, that where it has a place in the family, and has been read for years by young and old, it has developed such a healthy tone and such a discriminating taste that the literature of the slums has no admirers. Fortunately the number of such families is increasing in the land, and as they increase the journal that devotes itself to sickening revelations of immorality will be compelled to find its supporters solely among those classes that practice vice or crime, or are ambitious to learn to follow such ways.—Boston Herald.

County Commissioner's Salaries.

Representative Sieger, of Lehigh, has introduced a bill in the House for regulating the salaries of County Commissioners all over the State upon the basis of population. In counties having a population of 100,000 and less than 150,000, each commissioner to have a fixed salary of $1,000 per annum; in counties having 75,000 and less than 100,000, $800; in counties having 50,000 and under 75,000 $500; and in counties having less than 50,000, $400. At present some counties pay said officers a certain sum per annum, but in Schuylkill and the majority of others the commissioners are allowed a per diem, with mileage for travel, and hence the salaries vary according to services rendered.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Regular meeting of the Town Council for April was held on Wednesday evening. All the members present as follows: President, G. A. Herring; members, Messrs. Hassert, Lockard, Rabb, Hartman, Neal and Correll. Minutes of the last meeting read and approved. Mr. Wale, representative of the Eureka hose factory, appeared before the council and explained the merits of his hose. This gentleman came at the suggestion of the Secretary, as the council had been requested to purchase hose for the Winona Fire company. On motion the matter was postponed until next meeting.

The salary of the Secretary was fixed the same as last year, $180. J. K. Grotz was unanimously elected Secretary. Mr. Rabb moved that the salary of Treasurer be fixed at one per cent. Mr. Neal moved to amend by fixing it at two per cent. The vote was taken on the amendment and it was lost. It was then fixed at one per cent. F. P. Billmeyer and William Christman were nominated for Treasurer. The vote resulted as follows. Correll, Hassert, Lockard and Rabb voted for Christman; Neal and Hartman for Billmeyer. The salary of Solicitor was fixed at $50 a year. Mr. Neal nominated C. G. Barkley. Mr. Rabb nominated J. B. Robison. Mr. Hassert nominated H. E. Smith. The vote was as follows: No election on first ballot. On second ballot Mr Barkley was elected. It was moved that the pay of Town constable be fixed at $100 and so decided. The following nominations were made for constable: Reuben Harris, M. C. Woodward. The vote stood four for Harris and two for Woodward, The salary of street commissioner was fixed at $1.50 per day. The following persons were named for street commissioner: Frank Taylor, M. S. Williams, Owen Eyerly, Elijah Shutt, George Kramer, Nathan Bomboy, Levi Cox, Michael Walter. Frank Taylor received five votes and was declared elected. The following nominations were made for Chief of Police: B. B. Frear, S. W. Shutt, T. E. Geddis. B. B. Frear was elected. The following were appointed police: D. Laycock, W. Hagenbuch, N. Pursel, J. C. Sterner, A. Shultz, T. E. Geddis, Levi Cox, S. W. Shutt, Frank Jones, W. Knorr, Wm. Workheiser and H. G. Ort. A number of bills were then passed. After some other miscellaneous business the water question was taken up and after considerable discussion J. W. Hartman offered a resolution that a committee of two be appointed to wait upon the Water Company and require them to show by some test that they are able to comply with the contract the President to appoint said committee, and that the company fix the time to make the test, and the town be invited to be present. Adopted. The chair appointed Messrs. Hartman and Neal as said committee. Mr. Rabb gave notice that he would propose a tax rate of eight mills at the next meeting. The question of hose was then taken up, and it was decided to purchase 500 feet of Eureka hose, for the Winona Company, provided the Water Company can furnish water as agreed by them in their contract. Adjourned.

Shipe, Sunbury, General Agent; F. S. Kisport, Assistant; N. U. Funk, Solicitor. C. E. Kessler and J. K. Lockard are also members of the Board of Directors. The Company has commenced business and expects to be fully established in a very short time.

No one regrets more than ourselves, the necessity that compels us to take so much foreign advertising. The reading notices of patent medicines we know are not entertaining to many readers, but the fact is that advertising patronage has been so poor for several years past, that publishers were compelled to take such advertisements or none. Without advertising, no country paper can pay expenses. A subscription price of $5.00 would not be sufficient. So that while our readers may object to so much patent medicine advertising they must bear in mind that these advestisements enable publishers to print their papers at a much lower price than they otherwise could do.

A man named James Bartley was arrested last Friday night for an assault and battery on the person of Mrs. Jesse Hicks. The man was intoxicated, and meeting Mrs. Hicks on the street, grabbed her about the neck. Constable Harris happened to be near by and caught the fellow. He was given a night's lodging in the lockup, and on Saturday morning was taken before Esquire Maize, who after hearing the testimony of the officer committed the prisoner to jail in default of $500 bail. On being asked whether he had anything to say Bartley replied that he was very drunk at the time and did not know what he was doing. Whether this is the party who has been assaulting women on the street for some time back or not remains to be seen. He is one of the new rail road hands.

OBITUARY.

Died March 23 1881 at Benton, wife of Alfred McHenry aged 23 years 2 months and 8 days. Dear friends, under existing circumstances I feel it my duty to say a word upon the subject of my deceased companion who has left me very lonely in this unfeeling world of ours. We were separated just in the prime of life, having been married only 1 year and 11 months. But I must say those months were spent with much happiness to both. But those happy days are concluded never again to be experienced on this earth.

Whereas it has pleased the Creator of all good things to remove from us a devoted and much respected wife and sister and while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well we sincerely mourn the loss of so kind and affectionate a woman as my wife Mrs. Anna A. McHenry.

A word to sisters and friends. I can never forget the kindness which her sisters have shown toward me during our courtship, and while we were living together and since her death, I will always respect them as sisters and their husbands as brothers, and I feel very grateful to ward the neighbors for the respect they showed my deceased companion during her sickness and at the time of her death, and I must say I was thoroughly satisfied with the sermon delivered by D. M. Kinter of Stillwater. My opinion on his delivery was accompanied by many others who were present.

WRITTEN BY A. M'HENRY.

Did she weep to think of parting,
With the friends she loved so well,
Were there tears of sorrow starting,
Would she here still longer dwell?

She seemed to be waiting, only waiting,
For the messenger to come,
With her passport sealed and ready
To conduct her safely home.

Yet methinks for one she would have lingered,
For a while upon earth's sphere,
Stayed to soothe his cares and sorrows,
Stayed his pilgrimage to cheer.

Yet she had a glorious vision,
Faith presented the other shore.
Friends she loved ere long will join her,
All go home to die no more.

Yet we weep to think of parting
With a friend we loved so well,
Oft unbidden tears are starting
When we think of that last farewell.

Many prayers were raised to spare her
But God's answer we could not tell,
He knows best, we will not murmur,
For He doeth all things well.

The following verses were read at the funeral by Rev. D. M. Kinter. They were written by Alfred McHenry, husband of the deceased and are published at his request.

OUR DEAREST FRIEND HAS LEFT US.

No wife to cheer me now I am weeping
She has left me here alone,
Soon beneath the sod she will be sleeping;
Now there is no joy for me at home.

Tears of sorrows long have started
Her bright smiles no more I'll see,
Many loved ones too have parted
Where, oh where is joy for me.

My comforts gone she now is sleeping
Tears my furrowed cheeks now have
While I a lonely watch I'll soon be keeping
On her sad and silent grave.

Soon I hope will by our meeting
Then the gladness none can tell,
Who for me will then be weeping
When I bid the world farewell!

BERWICK NOTES.

March 29th, 1881.

[This letter was intended for publication last week, but it did not reach us until Saturday, having came from Berwick to Bloomsburg by way of Philadelphia. EDS.]

Mr. J. H. Dietterich, intends opening a printing office and book store in Mr. Reagan's new building on front street.

Rev. Kohler, formerly of Sullivan county, has taken the Reformed charge vacated by Rev Derr, and is now residing in town. He is an accomplished gentleman, a graduate of the Theological department of Yale.

Mr. J. H. Hoyt, proprietor of the St. Charles Hotel prior to the Wesler administration, will take charge of the William's Hotel this week, which establishment he has leased for five years. Mr. Hoyt is one of the few men, fit to run a business of this kind. In the past he has given evidence of a determination to keep a respectable house for the accommodation of guests, and not for the carousals of drunken "bummers."

Rev. Eddinger, the accomplished Evangelical minister of town, remains with us another year.

A view of the town from a neighboring hill reveals the fact that new houses are going up in every direction, yet still we hear of the scarcity of dwelling places.

At the Literary, last Saturday evening, Mr. L. F. Thompson made an impromtu speech on the new Cabinet; Miss Fannie Frantz sang a charming song. The subject for debate was, "Should the United States acquire dominion over the American Continent." On the affirmative were Mr. Hanly, Mr. Kurtz and A. M. Frear.; on the negative, W. E. Smith. Mr Trescott and Mr. Hosler. Decision was in favor of affirmative.

BUCKHORN NEWS.

BUCKHORN, April 5, 1881.

Our school closed on Tuesday evening with an exhibition. Proceeds, $10.07.

There are several cases of scarlet fever here still.

A little girl of Theodore Dent's, fell from a wagon and broke her leg in two places.

Mrs. Mary Appleman has purchased the house and lot formerly owned by William Hartman.

Mr. William Dent, a resident of this village for several years, moved near Danville. Mr. Dent and family have endeared themselves to this people and in his removal, the town loses one of her best citizens, and the church an able worker.

A. B. Hartman has resumed blacksmithing again at his old stand.

A fine audience greeted Rev. W. W. Evans, P. E., Danville District on Sunday afternoon, and their expectations were more than realized as they listened to this able divine. At this same occasion, Dr. Wm. Harris, of Hamburg, presided in his usual and able manner at the organ, to the delight of all who appreciate good music.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C. April 5th, 1881.

The anamalous condition of political affairs in this city is already causing the exposure of many party secrets, and the revival of stories already to the disadvantage of many politicians.

It is said for instance, that Garfield, either to anger Conkling or because he failed to understand the man, offered a Cabinet place to him, at the same time telling him that Blaine was to have the first place. Imagine Conkling's feelings.

It is said, also, by the friends of Blaine that he will have the present Senate dead lock broken early in the week. In the Republican caucus yesterday Senator Frye, who owes less to Blaine than any other successful Maine Republican politician, but who is his faithful and able friend, spoke earnestly against further neglect of public business. Mr. Blaine is "fighting mad" with Senator Conkling, and thinks this is the time to crush him. Conkling is, however, becoming the recognized leader of the party in the Senate, and Blaine can hardly go about the "crushing" business too soon. If the present Senatorial fight is kept up for ten days longer the chances are that Conkling would be able to defeat the confirmation of Robertson, and thus put upon the administration a humiliation not known to any preceding one in its first few weeks.

Another story is that Secretary Windom's much talked of financial visit to New York was made for the purpose of inducing Robertson to ask the withdrawal of his name as nominee for the Collectorship for the port of New York. And an addition to this story is that Attorney General MacVeagh went with the Secretary as a kind of supervisor.

One more story, and as improbable as any of the others, is that the President will call an extra session of Congress to meet early in May, believing that to be the only way of breaking the "deadlock."

These stories are good until others are told. They may all be true, or all false. They are all told freely around town.

The Republican Senators in caucus yesterday decided to introduce a resolution at an early day appointing committees to go South to investigate recent elections in various States. At present they are refusing to go on with public business simply because they wish to elect a few Senate officers. It is not strange they do not like the record made from day to day, and wish to change it. But the change signifies nothing. The selections of such committees is no more the necessary work of a session called for executive business than is the turning out of one set of officers to make room for another set.

The authorities have determined to commence at once the erection of a building for the Pension Bureau, using the appropriation—$200,000—both for site and building, and trusting to Congress for further amounts. This is the second building ever authorized for a single bureau of a department, the first being for the Patent Office. It is understood that Ex Congressman Moore will be made Commissioner of Pensions in place of its present incumbent of the office. The salary of the Commissioner is $5,000.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876 when I was taken with a Violent Bleeding of the Lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have for three years.

"I write this hoping you will publish it so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared and I shall soon be able to go to work. Sold by druggists. Take Wm. Hall's Balsam only—Beware of counterfeits. oct.15-1yeow

BRUSHES.

We have opened this week a fine assortment of Painters' Brushes of every description, and think we have by far the finest assortment to select from that can be found in this section. The prices in some lines have been reduced, and we have marked down our whole stock to correspond. We have been selling this make of brushes for some time and they have been giving excellent satisfaction, which warrants us in keeping a larger assortment than ever. Poor brushes are dear at any price. Our low prices together with excellent quality you will find worthy of your attention.

WHIPS.

We would call the attention of the driving public to our assortment of whips. In no store in the county can be found half the stock we have on our rack. Our stock contains a great variety of styles and material, fancy and plain, running in price from 15 cents to $3.00. In making our selections, our first move was to find a reliable manufacturer, and to confine ourselves to but one line of goods, thereby avoiding a great deal of worthless auction stock. We try to sell as good a whip as you are willing to pay for, so if you are not willing to pay much, you must not expect much.

SQUARE DEALING.

Nothing should be better appreciated by a patronizing public than reliable merchants of whom they can make their purchases, confident that they will not misrepresent their goods in order to make sales. This is oftentimes a great temptation to the merchant and in strictly adhering to his principle, he loses many sales, which are made by his less scrupulous neighbors. In no business is there greater chance for deception than in the Hardware trade, as the stock to a great extent is manufactured of steel or iron. Fancy paint or bronze together with a high polish, renders it difficult at times to distinguish the materials and you have to rely on either the reputation of the manufacturer, if he has one, or the honesty of the dealer. In many cases you would never know, if misrepresented to you, and the merchant's profits thereby largely increased, which makes it a great temptation to dishonest dealers. Never in any instance, have we misrepresented an article in our store, nor do we knowingly allow any employee to do so, and we trust any article bought of us and not found as represented, will be promptly returned. When we find it necessary to use such means in order to make sales, we shall move our stock to some point where square dealing is better appreciated. We do not claim to carry the cheapest line of goods. Our aim is to give dollar for dollar in value. In selecting our goods, our first consideration is to buy only from reliable manufacturers of standard goods, and secondly to buy as low as we can, and this is all we ask of you, examine our goods, get our prices, and if neither suits you, don't buy. We cannot ask you to do what we refuse to do ourselves, nor do we allow the forcing system, i. e., trying to talk you into something you don't want. We presume you know what you want when you come to see us, and leave such matters to your judgment as you will be better suited in the end. Thanking the public for past favors, we trust, by strictly adhering to our principle of Square Dealing, and giving dollar for dollar in value, to have a fair share of your patronage in the future.

NOTICE IN PARTITION.

ESTATE OF WILLIAM KELCHNER, DECEASED.

Whereas, by a writ of partition issued out of the Orphans' Court of Columbia county to me directed, tested the third day of March, A. D., 1881, I am commanded by an inquest of six men to make partition of a certain messuage and tract of land situate in Mifflin township in said county, bounded on the north by the Susquehanna river and on the south by lands of George Peifer, containing about forty-seven acres of the estate of William Kelchner, late of the township and county aforesaid, deceased, to and among the heirs and legal representatives of the said decedent, in such manner and in such proportions as by the laws of this Commonwealth is directed, if the same can be done without prejudice to or spoiling the whole, but if such partition cannot be made or the said premises cannot be divided into shares or proparts of equal value then to appraise the same or the several shares or proparts into which the same may be divided by the said inquest, and make return to the said court on the first Monday of May next:

Now, I hereby give notice to all heirs and legal representatives of William Kelchner, deceased, above named, and to all persons interested in the partition of his said real estate, that an inquest will be held for the partition or valuation of land above mentioned upon the premises in Mifflin township on Monday, the 25th day of April, inst, pursuant to the said writ and order of Court and between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and three o'clock in the afternoon of that day.

The following are heirs and persons interested in the estate of said Wm. Kelchner, deceased, namely: 1, John Kelchner, a brother of decedent; 2, Elizabeth, a sister of decedent; 3, Catharine Longenberger, a sister of decedent; 4, Children and grandchildren of George Kelchner, deceased, who was a brother of decedent, to wit: 1, Elizabeth, intermarried with John Gearhart; 2, Mary, intermarried with Samuel Gearhart; 3, Rebecca, intermarried with George Fetter; 4, Children of Catharine, a daughter of said George K

Denis Kearney has gone back to his dray, but still finds time on an occasional Sunday to speak at the Sand Lots. On a recent Sunday that famous resort was occupied by two orators, who, from separate stands, held each other up to contempt and derision. One of these was C. C. O'Donnell, whoever he may be, and Kearney was the other. O'Donnell warned his hearers against the wiles of Kearney, who, he said, had organized a Greenback party in the interest of the Republicans. At a little distance Kearney defended himself as one who had courted danger and poverty, with a heart bleeding for the woes of the oppressed poor. "It is because I love and feel for you and yours," that a restless and fevered brain kept my family and self in misery for three long years and more." The fact is that Kearney was remarkably comfortable and happy for three long years and more, as long as his friends were foolish enough to support him. Unless the San Francisco papers print an expurgated edition of this speech, the agitator's misfortunes have been blest to his oratory, for his language is far more decent and intelligible than it used to be, and he hadn't a word to say about lecherous bondholders. After all, San Francisco has good reason to be grateful to the Sand Lots, for they have always served the purpose of an excellent safety valve through which a vast volume of steam has always been harmlessly blown off.

AN INVALUABLE ARTICLE.

The readers of the Argus have no doubt seen the advertisement of Ely's Cream Balm in another column. An article like "Cream Balm" has long been desired, and that it is within the reach of sufferers from catarrh, hay fever, etc., there is every reason to believe they will make the most of it. Dr. W. E. Buckman, W. E. Hamman, druggist, and other Eastonians have given it a trial, and recommend it in the highest terms.—Easton Pa. Daily Argus, Oct. 7, 1879.

We have sold many gross of Ely's Cream Balm, and are gratified to hear from our customers the most flattering reports and believe it is an article of real merit. Smith, Kline & Co., wholesale druggists, Philadelphia, Pa.

Outrageous Hazing.

An outrageous case of "hazing" has lately occurred at Syracuse, New York. Mr. E. S. Tripple, a freshman of the university, was bound, gaged, and driven out of the city, where he was taken into a grove and subject to various indignities, while still bound and gagged. His hair was cut in fantastic fashion, shipped and scolloped, making a very close cut necessary as soon as he could get to a barber shop. The captors attempted to give him some nauseous compound as medicine, but he refused to take it. After this outrage the assailants got into their carriage, leaving Mr. Tripple still bound and gagged under the trees. After great efforts on his part he finally succeeded in releasing himself from his bonds, and, gaining the main road, ascertained where he was and walked back to Syracuse.

A Sharp Yankee.

Some time ago a Yankee character went into a rum shop and called for a quart of rum. It was poured into a two quart jug, which he produced, when he coolly told the barkeeper to charge it. "Not much," said the man of stimulants, "I'll take it back." "All right then," said the bummer, "but be careful and take only a quart, for I've got another quart in there." The barkeeper poured out a quart and was satisfied, so was the customer. The other quart was water, and the stimulant was ready mixed for drinking.

HOW SHE SAVED MONEY.

"For nearly six years my daughter was most of the time on a sick bed from kidney and other diseases peculiar to women. We had used up our savings on doctors and prescriptions without any benefit. Our dominie advised us to try Parker's Ginger Tonic, and four bottles effected a marvelous cure. As it has been our only medicine since, and a dollar's worth has kept our family well over a year, we have been able to lay up a little money again for a rainy day."—A Poor Man's Wife.

No More "Treating" in Wisconsin.

CHICAGO, March 29.—A dispatch from Madison, Wisconsin, says the Governor of Wisconsin to-day signed the bill recently passed by the Legislature prohibiting the practice of "treating." The bill provides that any person who shall hereafter ask another to drink at his expense or any person consenting to drink at another's expense, shall be liable to arrest and punishment. When the bill was introduced into the Legislature it was referred to as a senseless and impractical idea and nobody thought it would become a law. It has only attracted attention since it has passed.

A MADSTONE.—There are many persons in the west who believe in the curative powers of the madstone. A man who was bitten by a mad hog in the vicinity of Tecumteh, Nebraska, travelled all the way to Savannah, Mo., to try the famous madstone owned by Uncle John Nelson. The stone immediately adhered to the wound, which is said to be proof positive that the patients blood was poisoned, and remained clinging to the sore from early morning until sundown, when it dropped off. The patient departed, feeling that he had been cured. Uncle John Nelson had owned this madstone since 1848, and has used it in over 100 cases where men have been bitten. He avers that it never failed to work a cure.

An ingenious machine, called the "tell tale," has been introduced recently on the Erie Railroad. It registers the speed of trains, when and where they stop and how long. It is used especially for freight trains and is fastened at either end of small cabooses or at the side of large cabooses about four and a half feet from the floor. It was adopted because freight trains frequently exceeded the prescribed rate of speed. They would run very fast for some distance, and then take things comfortably for a time.

Chicago lumber dealers are using metres instead of feet in measuring. If they use the same kind of metres the gas companies do, don't buy your lumber in Chicago.

An editor don't know everything. Editors only claim to have about three times as much knowledge as the ordinary run of men. But perhaps this is a low estimate. Editors are naturally modest.

BEAUTIFIERS.

Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France, or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health, and nothing will give you such good health, strength, bouyant spirits and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is certain proof. See another column.—Telegraph.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM.
OF LYNN, MASS.

DISCOVERER OF
LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S
VEGETABLE COMPOUND.
The Positive Cure.
For all Female Complaints.

This preparation, as its name signifies, consists of Vegetable Properties that are harmless to the most delicate invalid. Upon one trial the merits of this Compound will be recognized, as relief is immediate; and when its use is continued, in ninety-nine cases in a hundred, a permanent cure is effected, as thousands will testify. On account of its proven merits, it is to-day recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country.

It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

In fact it has proved to be the greatest and best remedy that has ever been discovered. It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach

It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of Lozenges, on receipt of price, $1.00, per box, for either. Mrs. PINKHAM freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this paper.

WILL IT CURE ME?

Said a man whose wo-begone countenance and broken down constitution showed traces of disease—a sufferer with Nervous Dyspepsia, in whose stomach the most delicate morsel lay like lead. Refreshing sleep and quiet nerves were strangers to him, and he despaired of ever being well. We advised him to take

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

which he did, and in a short time was not only relieved but cured

Reader; if you are suffering with Dyspepsia or Liver Disease in any form do not wait until the disease has taken a fast hold upon you, but use the Regulator when the symptoms first show themselves. It has relieved untold suffering. SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR is not an alcoholic stimulant, but a

FIRE-PROOF SAFE.

THE ONLY EIGHT FLANGE SAFE MADE IN THE WORLD.

LATEST FROM MAINE.

Lock's Mill's, Oxford co., Me,
Messrs. Morris & Ireland:
Gents:—On the 22nd of November, 1879, our spool mill at this place, 50x64, two stories high, was totally consumed by fire, in which there was a large quantity of spool lumber, spools and blocks, all seasoned. The fire burned for three and a half days. We had one of your safes in our mill and Tuesday morning following, eighty hours after the fire, it was too hot to handle, being covered with burning blocks. Some time after it was opened and the contents were in a good state of preservation, not a book or paper being destroyed. I am satisfied with your safes and have purchased another, and can cheerfully recommend them to any one wishing to secure their valuables from being destroyed by fire.
Yours truly, I. G. TEBBE,

TREMENDOUS TEST.

Roasting Thirty Hours in a Bed of Red Hot Coals.
Corning, N. Y., January 6, '81.
Morris & Ireland Boston, Mass.
Gentlemen:—On the night of the fire in our village on the 26th ult., I had in use one of your No. 8 Safes. I am pleased to inform you, after the floor gave way it fell into the cellar, into a heap of burning coal, where it roasted for thirty hours. Our citizens and myself gave up the hope of anything being saved in it, on being taken from the ruins I was happily disappointed to find my cash, vouchers and other articles of value perfectly preserved. The combination works well now. I am satisfied your new and improved work, one of which, a No. 20, I have ordered of your agent to-day, will afford absolute protection in any fire.
Truly Yours, E. S. BARNES.

STILL AHEAD.

Rochester, N. H., Dec. 10, '80.
Messrs. Morris & Ireland:
Dear Sirs:—In the disastrous fire which took place in this town Nov. 30, the Morris and Ireland safe in my store was subjected to a severe test, being thrown into the cellar and a huge mass of debris fell upon it, and it was in the ruins some two days. I take pleasure in informing you that upon excavation it was opened without trouble and the contents were found to be uninjured. I cheerfully recommend your safe and should I want another I should certainly purchase one from you.
Yours truly, G. W. HOWE.

STILL ANOTHER.

From the Great Fire in Troy, New York.
Troy, N. Y., December 11, 1879.
Messrs. Morris & Ireland, Boston:
Gentlemen:—After witnessing the charred books out of the safes opened, also one of my own which was another make, which was not in the heat of the fire like the No. 6 lately purchased of you, which was in the fire over forty-eight hours, and had to be continually played on during Monday night, as it was completely surrounded with burning muslins and other inflammable material, on opening it in the ruins Tuesday afternoon, I was pleased to find the contents, books, papers and money were all preserved in a remarkably good condition. With this proof of the fine qualities of your safe we have given your agent an order for one No. 8 safe.
Yours respectfully, DAVIS & Co.

THE GREAT
BOSTON FIRE.
JANUARY, 1880.

Morris & Ireland's Safes Again Triumphant Messrs. Rice, Kendall & Co's. Large Safe Reveals its Valuable Contents Intact, after being subjected to Intense Heat for one Hundred and Thirty Hours.
Boston, January 2, 1880.
Messrs. Morris & Ireland, Boston:
Gents:—On the night of December 28, last, the building occupied in part by us at No. 81 Federal street, and which was four stories high and about 50 feet deep, caught fire and was destroyed, with all its contents, consisting of a very large stock of paper, book binders' materials and other merchandize. While several other large buildings adjoining ours were burned at the same time, the flames were extinguished the following day, but our stock continued to burn for days thereafter. After a delay of 130 hours we were able to have our safe dug out from the ruins and opened, and were pleased to find all the contents well preserved. The safe contained our most valuable books, papers, policies, etc., and we now feel sure that our judgment was correct in buying one of your safes, which we decided to do after knowing the wonderful record of your sales in the great Boston fire of '72. We regard the protection of your safe as most remarkable, and this fire is a guaranty of its security to those who may wish to purchase.
Yours very truly, RICE, KENDALL & Co.

Also a Communication from Ex-Governor Alex. Rice,
Boston, January 2, 1880.
MESSRS MORRIS & IRELAND,
Gents: I have made careful examination of the contents of the safe purchased of you some years since by the firm of Rice, Kendall & Co., and which was subject to the test of enormous heat in the great fire of last Sunday night. I regard the security of the safe under the circumstances as most remarkable. None of its contents were burned, nor were any of them so injured by heat as to be materially damaged. I should commit any securities to your safe hereafter with additional confidence. With great respect, yours very truly,
Alexander H. Rice.

THE LATEST YET.

BUT THE SAME RESULT.

So. Norridgewock, Me., Feb. 1, 1881.
Messrs Morris & Ireland, Boston Mass.:
The safe I bought of you 1st October was in a two-story wooden building, which burned Jan. 23. The building took it in the night, and the safe, building and its contents, fell into the cellar upon a pile of dry wood, making a hot fire which lasted for ten hours. The outside of the safe was heated red hot. It melted the handle and dial off the door. The contents consisted of watches, jewelry, silverware, books papers &c., all of which came out in good condition. Papers lying against the inside of the safe were not injured. The safe shows for itself what it is, and I feel well satisfied with what it has done. Please write what you can allow for it towards a new one, and oblige,
O. F. HALL.
